

WELCOME TO TGCA'S FALL 2007 SAN ANTONIO SHOW

In an effort to produce better shows, TGCA's future promotion and advertising will be targeted towards each specific location and theme thus generating increased local awareness and sharpened interest for all dealers, collectors and educators.

Additionally, we shall actively encourage more outstanding historical displays and the sale and trade of fine arms and their accessories and accoutrements. This will result in a larger volume of traffic than has been normal in the recent past. However, be reminded that neither TGCA, nor the hotel management or staff, will be liable for any merchandise lost, damaged or stolen during the course of the show.

Every table holder and collector is expected and required to monitor, and if necessary to secure, their merchandise at all times for the duration of the show, whenever the doors are open to members and public alike.

If you have security concerns or issues, please bring them immediately to the attention of Crockett Keller, TGCA Sergeant-At-Arms, or one of the uniformed police officers on duty in the exhibition hall.

Thank you for participating in TGCA's fall 2007 show. The board of directors joins me in wishing you all a successful and enjoyable weekend, as well as a safe trip home.
